1. Warranties, Representations, and License to Publish

The Authors jointly and severally represent and warrant as a continuing representation and warranty as follows:

- 1.1 I/we confirm that this article is original and has not been, in whole or in part, formally published in any other peer-reviewed journal, and is not under consideration for publication at another journal. None of the Authors has sold, licensed, assigned, or otherwise encumbered and will not sell, license, assign or otherwise encumber any of the rights granted herein to the Publisher.
- 1.2 I/we confirm that I am/we are the sole author(s) of the article and have full authority to enter into this agreement and in granting rights to JMIR Publications are not in breach of any other obligation to any other party.
- 1.3 I/we confirm that the article does not (i) violate any other agreement to which any of the Authors is a party; (ii) include or disclose any information or data given to the Authors or any of them on the understanding that it would not be published; or (iii) include any information or data that has been obtained or used in the article unlawfully.

- 1.4 The article does not, and if published will not, infringe upon any copyright, intellectual property rights or proprietary rights of others.
- 1.5 The article contains nothing unlawful, obscene, defamatory or libelous, or anything which would, if published, constitute a breach of contract, confidence, or confidentiality.
- 1.6 I/we confirm that I/we have taken due care to ensure the integrity of the article. To my/our—and currently accepted scientific—knowledge, all statements contained in it purporting to be facts are true and any formula or instruction contained in the article will not, if followed accurately, cause any injury, illness, or damage to the user.
- 1.7 I/we confirm that I/we retain copyright.
 - 1.7.1 I/we confirm that all NIH-affiliated authors have also signed the NIH Publishing Agreement & Manuscript Cover Sheet which can be found at https://oir.nih.gov/system/files/media/file/2022-10/pub_form-coversheet-peer_reviewed.pdf and confirm that any provisions therein take precedence over similar provisions in this Agreement, particularly with regard to copyright.
- 1.8 I/we grant JMIR Publications and third parties, in advance and in perpetuity, the right to use, reproduce or disseminate the published article in its entirety or in part, in any format or medium under a Creative Commons Attribution License (CC-BY 4.0 <http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0/>). For greater clarity, this also implies that authors can reproduce the published article or portions of it (e.g. a figure) in a thesis or a book chapter, provided that JMIR Publications is duly identified as the original publisher, that proper attribution of authorship and correct citation details are given (including JMIR journal name and the URL to the original article on the JMIR or sister journals' websites), that a clear notice clarifying the license terms is provided (e.g., a notice saying that the reproduced copy can be freely shared under a Creative Commons Attribution License), that the bibliographic details are not changed, and, if the work is reproduced or disseminated only in part, this fact is clearly and unequivocally indicated.
- 1.9 I/we grant to JMIR Publications and its successors and assigns, an irrevocable royalty-free world-wide license for the full term of copyright in the all versions of the article (including the submitted, accepted and copyedited manuscripts) to publish it in any language, format or medium and identify JMIR Publications as the original publisher of the journal or medium in which the article first appeared.

1.9.1 I/we grant JMIR Publications the right to edit the article in accordance with the most up-to-date edition of the AMA Manual of Style and JMIR Publications' in-house style guide before publication.

1.10 JMIR Publications has no obligation to publish the article. Examples for scenarios that may arise between acceptance and publication which may lead to a delay or abort production include for example evidence of scientific misconduct, plagiarism, presence of large portions of AI-generated material that was not disclosed on submission, or author disputes. In the event that the article is not published within 18 months of the date of this agreement, I/we acknowledge that these terms and conditions shall cease to apply and neither I/we nor the publisher shall have any further obligations towards the other in respect of the article or these terms and conditions, except for potentially outstanding article processing fees.

1.11 If either the Publisher or any of the Authors becomes aware of an act of copyright infringement of the Work (for example, reproduction of the article by third parties that violate the terms of CC-BY, e.g. not citing the source properly or omitting the CC-BY license from the reproduced work), that party shall immediately notify the other in writing. Either party shall have the right, but not the obligation, to bring an action based on such claims in accordance with applicable law. If the parties proceed jointly, the expenses and recoveries, if any, shall be shared equally. If the parties do not proceed jointly, either party shall have the right to proceed and shall bear the full cost, and retain the full recovery, in the proceedings. If the Publisher proceeds either alone, or jointly with any of the Authors or all the Authors, all the Authors shall permit the action to be brought in the Authors' names and shall take all steps necessary to assist in the prosecution of the action, including attending at all necessary meetings, discoveries, and trial, the execution of such documents as may be required, and cooperating in all reasonable ways to enable the Publisher to proceed. Neither party shall be liable to the other for failing to bring an action or proceeding in respect of copyright infringement.

1.12 The Authors shall jointly and severally indemnify and hold harmless the Publisher and any other party to whom the Publisher or its licensees may extend the representations and warranties contained herein in connection with the publication of the Work or the exercise of any rights therein or derived therefrom, against any loss, damage, amounts paid in settlement and expenses (including reasonable legal fees and expenses) (collectively, "Losses") regarding or in connection with any claim, action or proceeding arising from the breach or alleged breach of any of the Authors' representations, warranties or covenants under this Agreement, according to the following terms:

- 1.12.1 The Authors or Publisher shall promptly notify the other party in writing of any claim, threat or demand, whether merely asserted or in the form of legal proceedings, made in connection with the Work (the "Claim") of which either party becomes aware, giving the fullest information obtainable at the time. The Authors and the Publisher shall co-operate fully with each other in defence of any Claim and the Authors' failure to co-operate in the defence of a Claim shall be deemed a breach of this Agreement;
 - 1.12.2 The Publisher shall defend any Claim made against it with counsel who shall be chosen by the Publisher, at its sole discretion, after consultation with the Authors;
 - 1.12.3 All expenses, including counsel fees, disbursements and all other legal costs, in defending a Claim made against the Publisher (the "Costs") shall be shared equally by the Authors on the one hand and the Publisher on the other until a final determination of the Claim; the Authors may join in the defence of any Claim with counsel of the Authors' own choice and at the Authors' expense;
 - 1.12.4 Where a Claim against the Publisher is successfully defended, the Authors' indemnity shall be limited to one half of all Costs;
 - 1.12.5 The Publisher may, in its sole discretion, settle any Claim made against the Publisher but only after consultation with the Authors; the Authors and Publisher shall agree on the proportionate shares each shall bear for all costs relating to such settlement; failing such agreement, the Publisher may pursue any remedies available to it based on a breach of the Authors' obligations including the Authors' representations and warranties in this Agreement.
- 1.13 I/we confirm that whenever there is more than one author hereunder, all authors will be jointly and severally responsible for all duties, obligations, representations, warranties and covenants under this Agreement. It is agreed that the Designate (Corresponding) Author shall represent all such joint authors in all matters relating to, or arising out of, this Agreement, and shall have the power to bind all joint authors in respect of any such matter. Further, the Publisher may rely and act upon any instructions, representation or consents made or given by the Designate to the Publisher without first having to obtain confirmation as to any such instructions, representations or consents from the other joint authors.
