Dear Samuel Thomas Harrold,

The proof for your article [Interact J Med Res 96541] "[InHealth Care Analytics Challenges: A 3-Pillar Framework Connecting Analytics Maturity, Workforce Agility, and Technical Enablement]" to be published in [Interact J Med Res], is now available for review.

Link to article: LINK.

Please use Google Chrome; other browsers are currently not supported.

Please review your proof, answer the queries raised, and sign off via the system within 3 days of receipt of this email. If you have any additional queries, you will have the option to request to view the final version before the paper is scheduled for publication.

If you cannot return your proofs within this time, please let me know the earliest date that you can return them.

Please understand that this is your last opportunity for corrections before publication. Discretionary style and content corrections will not be accepted in the proofreading stage—please only make important changes/corrections or corrections of errors that were introduced during typesetting.

Key information

- Please note that only the submitting user can edit the manuscript.
- All coauthors will receive a separate email with a view-only version of the PDF and should communicate changes (if any) to you (the submitting user).
- If you cannot make all the required changes via the system please add further requests as queries addressed to the Publisher.

Once reviewed, please click "Approve" and complete the steps on the page, then click "Submit." Note that after submitting, you will no longer have access to the manuscript.

Once we have your approval, and there are no pending queries, the paper will be scheduled for publication, pending final reviews by members of our Production and Editorial staff. If a severe issue needs to be corrected after you've completed the review but before publication, please reach out to your Production Editor (laura.mcreynolds@jmir.org) or prod-support@jmir.org.

Please note that we may contact you again if an additional review is required. Thank you for your attention.

Kind regards,

Laura McReynolds
